A SURE WINNER!

C. A. Towne Nominated for Congress by Acclamation.

The Convention a Unit for the Duluth Plan.

The 6th District will Elect a Republican Congressman in November.

The republicans of the Sixth congressional district at Brainerd on Tuesday nominated by acclamation Hon. C. A. Towne, of Duluth, for congress.

The convention which was held in this city on Tuesday was a very enthusiastic and harmonious one, notwithstanding the fact that before the convention assembled there were many who predicted that the St. Louis county man would not be able to secure the nomination and that a dark horse would be trotted out at the proper time.

With the exception of those from St. Louis county the delegates all arrived in Brainerd on Monday evening.

A special train from Duluth arrived at 10:30 bringing a large delegation of prominent and enthusiastic citizens from that place each one wearing a Towne badge showing that there was a unanimous feeling in the city at the head of the lakes in their choice for congressman.

At 10:45 Chairman Benson called the convention to order at the opera house and Maj. Geo. A. Whitney was elected temporary chairman, J. C. Torbet of Wright county, and J. H. Engell, of Anoka, were elected secretaries. Chairman Whitney gave a rousing speech and the Duluth Glee club sang several selections and the convention then got down to work.

A committee consisting of the following gentlemen was selected on platform: E. A. Zver, Aitkin; B. A. Caswell, Anoka; Geo. Homer, Benton; W. P. John, Carlton; Seth Phillips, Cass; John T. Frater, Crow Wing; E. F. Wright, Hubbard; A. G. Barnard, Itasca; James Coggswell, Lake; L. B. Briggs, Mille Lacs; L. J. Wright, Morrison; Stuebend, Pine; C. F. Johnson, St. Louis; H. Murphy, Sherburne; D. F. Hendricks, Stearns; Wm. Miller, Todd; A. S. McMullen, Wadena; C. A. French, Wright.

The committee on credentials was: C. S. Benson, Stearns, Chairman; Carl, St. Louis; Malm, Crow Wing; Cox, Hubbard; Martin, Carlton.

On rules the following gentlemen were named: McCarthy, Itasca, chairman; Carpenter, Wright; Briggs, Mille Lacs; Locke, Todd; Weynans, St. Louis; Wilson, Benton; Knox, Aitkin; T. Hurlinson, Wright; Miller, Sherburne.

The convention then took a recess until 2:30.

The afternoon session opened with songs from the Duluth glee club and music from the Brainerd city band.

Then came the reports from the committees which were adopted without discussion. W. A. Cant presented the report on credentials and R. S. Munger on rules, the latter gentleman making a very amusing speech.

A. G. Barnard read the resolutions and platform, which appeared in full on our second page, and he was frequently interrupted by applause, the mention of James G. Blaine and Tom Reed calling forth much enthusiasm.

The motion of Col. Westerman, of Stearns county, that the convention proceed to name the next congressman from the Sixth district was acted upon, and when the call of counties reached that of Itasca that county gave way to St. Louis and H. H. Phelps took the platform presenting the name of Charles A. Towne in a well worded speech. Stearns county was called and C. F. Hendricks, of the Sauk Centre Herald, took the floor and made the speech of the convention, delicately touching with a vein of sarcasm upon the Duluth vote for Stearns two years ago and bringing down the house with his keen wit.

He said:

"We are not merely to select a candidate, but to name the next congressman. Not only that, but to name one of a solid republican delegation from Minnesota—one of a republican majority in the next house. The Sixth district is national in its interests. There's hardly a national question which does not nearly concern our district's interests. Our congressman must represent the red scalp on the reservation and white scalp in the Duluth board of trade. There is no interest to which he must not give his attention. I believe the diversity of talent required by our representative is possessed by C. A. Towne. We send greetings to St. Louis, the banner county of the north, from the banner county of the south. St. Louis exerts the influence in the quantity of her republicans, Stearns in the quality of hers. Stearns county republicans hold less concern of any of those of any other county. We can't get offices at home and have to go outside if we get them. With two and a half democrats on the neck

Olympic Theatre Burned.

Brainerd's Olympic theatre burned last night being totally destroyed to- gether with all the contents of the building. The fire was discovered at 11:45 but was under check headway the untiring efforts of the fire department had no effect on the blaze. Humphrey Lynch the watchman at the building says the first he knew of the fire was when that part of the building near his room began to fall in and he barely escaped in time to save himself. The fire must neces- sarily have been of incendiary origin as the place was unoccupied and no fire had been in or near it for some months, and the construction of the interior of the building was such that once started the flames were bound to spread with lightning rapidity. The building was erected in 1893 by Kellehan & Quinn and was opened to the public on the 26th of June of that year, James Kellehan being the own- er of it at the time of the fire. The building was valued at $6,000 and there was $3,000 insurance on it.

Shop Men at Work.

A bulletin was posted at the N. P. railroad shops in this city on Wednesday announcing that work would be resumed in them on Thursday morning Aug. 30, and accordingly the whistle blew for the first time since the latter part of June on that date.
A large force of men are now employed again and there is no reason to doubt that it will be greatly increased as work is piling in at a rapid rate.
The road is doing a rushing business and many extra trains are being run to take care of the freight traffic.

C. E. Peabody has purchased the Wm. Shontell farm and Mr. Shontell and wife will move into the city, oc- cupying the Peabody residence on Eighth street south which was part of the consideration. It is the in- tention of Mr. Shontell to at once begin the erection of a large green house and go extensively into that business and of which there is no doubt he will make a success, the advantage of the situation being that there are no greenhouses nearer Duluth or Minne- apolis and a large territory can be covered by a well conducted business from this point. Both Mr. Shontell and his estimable wife are experienced in the business and many of the ladies of Brainerd can testify as to the abili- ty of the latter as many of their homes are now graced with rare plants raised by the lady. It will certainly be an industry worthy of support and as a matter of convenience will be well patronized, if nothing else.

The Circus Queen, in which Miss Vickers appears Wednesday, Sept. 5, is not like most farces, "one part play," but each character is as prominent as the star part. The char- acter of Hurrab, the circus manager, is very strong and as portrayed by Eric Pollock keeps the audience in raptures of laughter all the time. A special feature will be the singing of Miss Bessie Rosenzweig the Polish night- ingale. This company appears at Metropolitan Opera House St. Paul week of Aug. 26th and that in itself is a sufficient guarantee that it is first class in every particular.

The boom company will clear the river of highest grades, Miss Clara, first primary room; Miss Low, second primary room; Miss E. Murphy, third room, intermediate; Miss M. Fuller, fourth room; Mrs. E. Cahoon, fifth room, intermediate; Miss Louise Som- mers, third grade room; Miss Badeaux, fourth grade room.

Populist Gail.

At a populist convention held in Brainerd, the convention, assuming that I was one of em, elected me a delegate to the St. Cloud congressional convention and instructed me to support Carl E. Taylor for representative in congress from Sixth district. Understand me, my fellow citizens, I uphold the cause of the masses against the classes, have always stood for right against might, but an attempt to reform that will overthrow without any prospect of building up is not exactly my kind. If I have either religion, morality or patriotism it is the latter. The country, right or wrong, and any man who is of that stamp cannot identify himself with a crowd that will support such a man for congress as Carl E. Taylor, a man who will not care to have his record overhauled unless he is past all sense of shame so far that he mistakes notoriety for celebrity. My early education was neglected to such an extent that I am unable to do this subject justice without the use of language as odorous as the Sixth district and I do not use such among gentlemen.

Held Up and Shot.

Conductor Straub, son-in-law of Mrs. C. Dreesen and well known in this city, had quite an experience at Helena last week, being held up by a highwayman, relieved of his money and shot through the thigh because he refused to turn over his watch.
The Helena Independent says of the affair:

While at the task of checking up the car numbers preparatory to leaving on his trip, Conductor Straub was confronted by a masked man who stuck a gun under his nose and in a forcible but quite inebriated language gave the command "hands up." Mr.
Straub looked at the big gun just a moment and then his hands went up which seemed to meet all the requirements of the other man. The robber then asked the conductor for his money and Straub at once handed over $2.50 which happened to be all he had. The smallest of the band seemed to anger the man with the gun, who next ordered the conductor to give up his watch. This Straub refused to do and began to argue the matter with the new acquaintance.
Just then the switch engine with the caboose appeared close at hand on a sidetrack and the highwayman knew that the light from the headlight of the engine would discover him to the others of the crew, and with an oath he took a step back, drew his gun down on a line with the conductor's body and fired. His victim dropped to the ground and leaping away from the light of the approaching engine, the rascal made his escape into the darkness. When the trainmen arrived Straub had risen to his feet and a hasty examination of the wound was made, the conductor declaring it was a mere scratch. The ball was from a 44-caliber gun and struck the lower part of Straub's thigh, and passed clear through making a deep flesh wound, but no large arteries were severed, the doctor believed the wound would not be a very serious one. Conductor Straub resides at Missoula.

How It Occurred
James Curo, at whose place occurred the row mentioned in last week's paper, was in the city on Wednesday and to a reporter stated that the true version of the affair had not been published. On the morning in question he says a squad of Indians more or less intoxicated came to his place and that one of them went into his warehouse and took a sack of flour.
Mr. Curo remonstrated and took it away from the Indian whereupon he was assaulted and knocked down, his son at this juncture came to his recue and struck the Indian over the head with a pair of gun barrels, breaking the red skin skull. The injured individual was taken into the house, medical assistance called but nothing could be done for him and he died. John Curo, who killed the Indian came at once to Brainerd as the Indians were not allowed to enter him bodily harm if he is caught by them.

Opening of the Opera House.
The Sleeper Opera House will open under the management of E. T. Da-

Vickers and the other members of the company excellent opportunities to introduce the several specialties and the management claim all new and original features. A special scene illustrating the interior of a circus tent is carried for the second act and is very realistic. One can almost smell the sawdust and taste the red lemonade, also the painted canopies. In the act several new and pleasing novelties are introduced, including Miss Vickers in her famous German songs and dances. Mr. Eric Pollock, Mr. Ed-

Olympic Theatre Burned.
Brainerd's Olympic theatre burned last night being totally destroyed together with all the contents of the building. The fire was discovered at 11:45 but was under such headway that the untiring efforts of the fire department had no effect on the blaze.
Humphrey Lynch the watchman at the building says the first he knew of the fire was when that part of the building near his room began to fall in and he barely escaped in time to save himself. The fire must necessarily have been of incendiary origin as the place was unoccupied and no fire had been in or near it for some months, and the construction of the interior of the building was such that once started the flames were bound to spread with lightning rapidity. The building was erected in 1893 by Kellehan & Quinn and was opened to the public on the 26th of June of that year, James Kellehan being the owner of it at the time of the fire. The building was valued at $6,000 and there was $3,000 insurance on it.

the latter part of June on that date.
as work is piling in at a rapid rate.
to take care of the freight traffic.

week's paper, was in the city on Wednesday and to a reporter stated that
his warehouse and took a sack of flour.
Mr. Curo remonstrated and took it
head with a pair of gun barrels,
them.

Opening of the Opera House.
vidson on Wednesday Sept. 5th. Mr.
Davidson has especially engaged Miss Mattie Vickers in her new play of circus life, The Circus Queen. This play was written chiefly to amuse the people and not to overtax the brain in the way of a plot. It affords Miss
original features. A special scene il-
win Russell as the clown and Messrs.
Avery and Anden. Miss Elma Latimore the Spanish dancer and Bessie Rosenzweig the great Polish nighten-gale. The sale of seats will commence at the McFadden Drug store, Saturday morning.

Held Up and Shot.
Conductor Straub, son-in-law of Mrs. C. Drosen and well known in
he refused to turn over his watch.
affair:
ing on his trip, Conductor Straub
forebode but quite ineloquent language gave the command "hands up." Mr.
Straub looked at the man just a moment and then his hands went up which seemed to meet all the require-
he had. The smallness of the haul
matter with his new acquaintance.
darkness. When the train arrived Straub had risen to his feet and a hasty examination of the wound was made, the conductor declaring it to be a mere scratch. The ball was from a .44-caliber gun and struck the lower
wound, but as no large arteries were severed the doctor believed the
one. Conductor Straub resides at
